

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY
PUBLIC MEETING ON THE NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF A
FRAMEWORK DOCUMENT FOR ENERGY CONSERVATION STANDARDS FOR RESIDENTIAL FURNACE FANS

1000 Independence Avenue, SW.
Washington, DC 20585
Room 8E-089
Friday, June 18, 2010

Purpose

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is holding this informal public meeting as the first step in the energy conservation standards rulemaking process for residential furnace fans. This meeting is intended to familiarize interested parties with the approach, methodologies, and analytical tools that DOE anticipates using to develop test procedures and evaluate energy conservation standards for residential furnace fans. As such, it is the starting point for the rulemaking process. The meeting will highlight issues for which DOE has requested feedback from interested parties, mainly regarding the assumptions, methodology, and analytical tools DOE plans to use to evaluate energy conservation standards and develop test procedures.
